

EDUCATORS TAKE FLIGHT

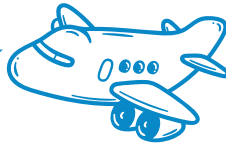

We know that when our educators thrive and have the resources they need, our students will benefit.

Thanks to the generous support from Denver Public Schools Foundation's official airline, United Airlines, the Educators Take Flight program provides the opportunity for Denver Public Schools educators to travel by air to enhance their perspectives and learn from experts in their field so they can improve outcomes for students.

Eligibility:

- Applicant must be a current DPS educator*
- Professional Development Opportunity identified aligns with DPS educational priorities with preference given to applicants whose professional learning is focused on DPS priority initiatives
- Travel is within the continental United States
- Applicant is willing to participate in a brief follow up interview to share learning and impact

At both booking and date of travel

Important Details and Considerations:

- The use of United Airlines vouchers are subject to fare class and flight availability
- A standard voucher is economy class.
- DPS Foundation may be unable to fulfill every request
- Once travel is booked, tickets are non-refundable and non-transferable
- All applications must be reviewed, approved and signed by the school principal or department head
- Educators Take Flight vouchers are for the cost of airfare only

Applications are accepted year-round and are currently reviewed bimonthly. If you have any questions, please reach out to grantmaking@dpsfoundation.org. For more information, please scan the QR code.
