Director of Strategic Partnerships, Denver 7

At Denver Public Schools Foundation, we believe that our city is strengthened by every student who graduates ready to lead a successful life. At the DPS Foundation, we invest in accelerating progress, we connect the community to our classrooms, and we inspire confidence in the promise of public education.

Kristin Stork is the director of strategic partnerships for Denver7 where she oversees the station's community partnerships, programs and events. Kristin also works on the station's Equity, Diversity and Inclusion efforts and helps ensure Denver7 represents all of the communities it serves. She helped launch Denver7 Gives, which invites viewers to donate funds to help individuals whose stories they see on Denver7 News. Denver7 viewers have contributed nearly $2 million dollars to Denver7 Gives since its inception in 2019. Kristin and her colleagues were recently recognized by the station's parent company, Scripps, with the Doing Well by Doing Good Award for their work with Denver7 Gives.

Kristin previously served as director of community relations for Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck and manager of community relations and charities for The Denver Post. She began her career at an advertising agency, but quickly found her way to nonprofit work, providing public relations and marketing leadership for the Children's Museum of Denver and the Arvada Center for the Arts and Humanities before moving into corporate social responsibility/community affairs.

She has served on a variety of boards and committees including Hunger Free Colorado, Denver Post Community Foundation, Volunteers of America's marketing and communications committee, and Colorado Nonprofit Association's leadership advisory council.

We know that when our students thrive, our city thrives. Every child deserves access to education – and the tools they need to be successful in school. I was privileged to have many choices when it came to my education. That foundation led to many of the opportunities and successes I've experienced in both my personal and professional life. I want to ensure that all Denver students and their families have a similar experience – and that they have the support they need to be successful.
