

Libby Hodgin
Communications & Events Manager

At the Denver Public Schools Foundation, we believe that our city is strengthened by every student who graduates ready to lead a successful life. At the DPS Foundation, we invest in accelerating progress, we connect the community to our classrooms, and we inspire confidence in the promise of public education.

Libby is the Events Manager for the DPS Foundation, joining DPS Foundation in May 2019. She serves as project manager for all DPS Foundation events including the Achieve Gala and cause-related marketing programs such as the Colfax Marathon and professional sports teams' community nights.

Prior to joining the DPS Foundation, Libby worked as the Events & Marketing Coordinator for a nonprofit in Bellevue, WA, providing basic needs to students living in poverty. She managed major fundraising events including a luncheon and gala auction. Libby served as lead graphic designer and worked with a team to create the organization's annual development and communications strategy. She has also worked in a public relations and marketing firm, and implemented marketing programs in order to drive community awareness and customer gains through events. Libby began her event career serving with AmeriCorps in a Title I Elementary School, where she used events to engage students and families around reading.

Libby has a Bachelor of Science in Economics from Washington State University and a Master of Science in Applied Economics from Oregon State University, a certificate in Graphic Design from Bellevue College, and a certificate in Project Management for Cornell University. Libby is passionate about all aspects of mission-driven work, with expertise in making meaningful contributions through events, marketing and graphic design.

We know that when our students thrive, our city thrives. I believe in our mission because all children deserve the chance to excel regardless of socioeconomic status, gender, race or ethnicity.
