Noble Energy, in Partnership with the Denver Broncos, Supports DPS Foundation and Cheltenham Elementary
Organizations join together Friday for a day of service followed by check presentation

DENVER– On Friday, May 19, Noble Energy and Denver Broncos employees will join together at Cheltenham Elementary for a day of service benefiting students and the school. The employees, cheered on by Broncos cheerleaders and mascot Miles, will help with the school’s field day and carnival, as well as undertake projects such as painting hallways and moving classrooms, before taking 50 students on a field trip to Sports Authority Field at Mile High for a tour of the stadium and presentation of a $35,000 check to the Denver Public Schools Foundation.

The activities mark Noble Energy’s partnership with the Denver Broncos in “The Red Zone Program.” Each time the Broncos offense enters the red zone during a home game, Noble Energy makes a $1,000 donation to DPS Foundation. The Broncos reached the red zone 35 times at home during the 2016 season, for a $35,000 donation. Over the past three seasons, Noble Energy, in partnership with the Broncos, has donated more than $100,000 to the DPS Foundation in support of its work on behalf of DPS students.

“We are thrilled to be part of this day with Noble Energy and the Denver Broncos. Their support will not only make a visible impact on our school, it will provide our students with memories for a lifetime,” said Cheltenham principal Felice Manzanares.

“The core of the DPS Foundation’s work is to make more opportunities possible for our students. Noble Energy and the Denver Broncos are important partners in this mission. They come into our schools and work alongside our educators and students, and their financial support helps fund important programs that move us closer to our shared vision Every Child Succeeds. We couldn’t be more grateful,” said DPS Foundation President and CEO Verónica Figoli.

Media are invited to join. Please contact Kristy Adams for a schedule for the day.
