

Patsy Landaveri
Senior Community Affairs Advisor, Noble Energy

Patsy Landaveri manages Noble Energy's community affairs activities in Colorado and is responsible for cultivating stakeholder relationships with community leaders and charitable organizations. Patsy leads Noble's efforts in public education and communication regarding oil and gas development in the state through broadcast media, digital campaign and direct stakeholder engagement. She oversees the company's multi-million dollar social investment program, branded sponsorships and employee volunteer and matching-gifts programs.

Patsy has more than a decade of experience in the energy industry. Prior to Noble, she managed community relations for Tri-State Generation and Transmission, a power supplier to rural Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and New Mexico. Patsy has a Bachelors in Economics from the University of Kentucky and a Masters in Global Energy Management from the University of Colorado in Denver. She is currently obtaining a Graduate Certificate at the University of Denver in Marketing Management. Patsy is also part of the Governor's Fellowship Program. She is a graduate of the Denver Metro Chamber's Leadership Denver Class of 2017 and the Denver Petroleum Club's Mentoring Program Class of 2013.

Under Patsy's leadership, Noble Energy has received philanthropy awards by the Colorado Business Committee for the Arts and National Philanthropy Day. In 2016, Patsy was recognized as a Community Champion by the Colorado Petroleum Council and last year, she was named Top Women in Energy by the Denver Business Journal.

Patsy is a member of the Denver Public Schools Foundation Board, the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce Board, Commons on Champa Women's Advisory Council Board and volunteers her time with many organizations across the state. In her free time, Patsy enjoys hiking, backpacking and snowboarding. She has climbed seventeen Colorado 14ers. Patsy, a native of Peru, enjoys travelling and experiencing different cultures.